

WHY CAMP KUDZU

Camp Kudzu provides children and teens the opportunity to gain valuable experience and education in an environment that encourages them to ask questions and try new things. Campers will enjoy the fun, triumphs, and friendships of the traditional camp experience while learning with—and from—their peers, counselors, and medical staff.

BECAUSE OF CAMP

Camp Kudzu partners with Clemson University each summer to explore the lasting outcomes of participation in our programs. Both campers and parents participate in the study. Below are a few of the most noteworthy benefits that occur "because of camp," as told by our Kudzu Campers and their parents/guardians!

Campers report an increase in:

- Knowledge
- Self-confidence
- Self-awareness
- Social skills
- Normalization

Parents/Guardians report an increase in:

- Communication Skills
- Responsibility
- Competence
- Acceptance

JOIN OUR COMMUNITY

For medical, research, or volunteer information, please contact Anna Albritton at aalbritton@campkudzu.org or 404-495-4857.

For family resources and program dates, please contact Whitney LeHew at wlehew@campkudzu.org or 404-495-4856.

HOW WE DO IT

Camp Programs

Camp Kudzu's programs are designed to give campers and their families an opportunity to experience the fun of camp while learning about and taking ownership of their t1d. Camp Kudzu offers the following camp experiences:

- Summer Overnight Camp
- Sprouts Day Camp
- Family Camp
- Teen Retreat

Community Events

Camp Kudzu is dedicated to ensuring campers and their families feel connected to a thriving and inclusive community year-round. We offer single-day programs and events throughout the state. Our website and social media platforms always have up-to-date information on local community events.

Leadership Development Program

Camp Kudzu believes in providing campers with opportunities to continue developing their diabetes management and leadership skills as they transition out of "camper" life and into independent adulthood. Participants of our Leadership Development Program experience growth opportunities focused on communication, decision-making, leadership, and youth development.